2016-2017 Financing Study Abroad/Off Campus Programs Guide

Franklin Pierce University offers both its own and affiliated study abroad opportunities intended to enrich the academic experience of our students. This guide is intended to outline the costs for participation in these programs. Not all of the recommended international programs cost the same, and the financial aid implications are different for each program. The variances are the result of the specific costs the University must assume in order to participate in affiliated programs. The Student Financial Services Office works closely with students to plan for the costs associated with making study abroad possible and encourage students to work with their Student Financial Services Counselor. Students also have the right to take a leave of absence from Franklin Pierce University in order to attend affiliated programs, keeping in mind that should the student opt to do so, Franklin Pierce will no longer assume academic or administrative functions. Franklin Pierce University does not offer financial aid for participation in abroad programs over the summer.

Students wishing to study abroad through a program not outlined in this brochure should meet with a Counselor in the Student Financial Services Office to review the possibilities. Such students must recognize that financial aid and billing will generally not be available through Franklin Pierce, but that Franklin Pierce staff can often bridge a communication thread between the host institution and the student and family.
